False Sense of Security

by TERESA DEVINE
News Editor

In September, when Governor Dick Riley cut the state budget by 4.6 percent, Coastal lost $223,000 of its state funding for the '82 fall semester.

How did this affect Coastal? According to Will Garland, Associate Chancellor for Administration and Finance at Coastal, "Coastal is experiencing a false sense of security. The real effects of the budget cut will be delayed for two years."

The real effects are deferred because Coastal is using $160,000 already placed in a Bonding Account, and USC in Columbia has reduced its direct charge to Coastal by $73,000.

For two years, prior to borrowing $600,000 dollars to complete Wheelwright Auditorium and borrowing $600,000 to complete the Science Building, Coastal had been placing the required $50 per full-time student into a Bond Account.

The $160,000 of this semester's bond money used to cover budget cuts was originally intended to purchase $80,000 of books for the Library and $80,000 for restoration projects.

Coastal may also be affected by more budget cuts. In January, if state revenues do not increase, Governor Dick Riley plans to cut the state budget by two percent. A two percent budget cut will mean $92,000 to Coastal for the spring semester.

Chancellor Committee Selected

By: LAURA ARAIZA

Due to the retirement of Chancellor Singleton at the end of the academic year, a committee has been selected to appoint a new chancellor. This committee is composed of representatives of the college, University of South Carolina and the community. When the committee has selected the three top choices, they will submit the candidates names to President James B. Holderman of the University of South Carolina.

"The search committee expects to examine resumes of as many as 200 candidates," says Dr. Janis Chesson, the chairman of the Coastal Carolina College Faculty Senate, who is chairing the search committee. "It will be a national search. All candidates will be considered equally." The application deadline is November 19th, according to Dr. Chesson.

Requirements for the job have been placed on record through advertisements place in local, regional, and national publications. The advertisement requires candidates to have a record of successful administrative experience; experience in long-range planning and budgeting; a demonstrative ability to work well with faculty, students, the community, and government leaders.

Spokesperson for the committee is Dr. Janis Chesson, Associate Professor of Sociology. Other committee members include faculty and administration officials, alumni, a representative of U.S.C., a representative of the Horry County Higher Education Commission, a representative of the Coastal Educational Foundation, and a student representative.

Dr. Chesson says the committee will probably submit its recommendations to President Holderman in January. "The search committee will have finished its screening of applicants by the end of this year," she says, "the name of the new chancellor will probably be announced in early spring."

Election Run-off Results Are In

by ESTA HILL
Managing Editor

The last election of 1982 took place last week here at Coastal Carolina College when students vied for positions as Student government Class Representatives. Competition was tight and resulted in a tie and several close votes. The turn out of voters was approximately 8%. The Freshman class voted twice as much as any other one class. The Sophomores and Juniors proved the most apathetic: each of these sent 24 voters to the polls.

The free public drawing will take place Monday, November 22, 1982, upstairs in the Student Center in the organizational lounge. Those present will be honored by special guest Chancellor Singleton as the man who will draw out three winners.

The new representatives were to be sworn in Monday under the Atheneum at 1:30. The Freshman representative is Timothy Henson, who will join the already elected Tawna McLean. The Sophomore representative elected was Robert Greer, who will represent the Sophomores alongside Edward White. The Junior class race resulted in a tie between Sean Casy and Lynne Radcliffe. Because Lynne declined interest in the office, Sean Casy will not have to go the polls for another run-off. Sean Casy will work with Kathy Clayton to represent the Junior class. Donna O'Brien won the Senior representative seat; the other seat is vacant and will be by an appointment by S.G.A. President Philip Lassen. Lassen.

Rebecca Jowers (l.) of Surfside Beach studies an exhibit of the Southern Graphics Show at Coastal Carolina College with Martha Thomas of Conway, an art professor at the college. The art show is open to the public, 12-5 p.m., through November 24.

Southern Graphics Show

An exhibit of 33 prints featuring experimental and mixed media processes as well as more traditional intaglio, woodcut, lithographic and serigraph methods will be shown at Coastal Carolina College in the Kimbel Library and in the Student Center from 12 - 5 p.m., through Nov. 24. The show is open to the public.

The collection, sponsored by the Southern Graphics Council, is comprised entirely of prints by member artists. Included are works by artist-printmakers well known in the South.

Bernie Solomon is represented by a wood engraving, Aleynu. Solomon has exhibited both nationally and internationally; his work can be found in the National Collection of Fine Arts (Smithsonian) and the New York Public Library Print and Drawing Collection.

Works of Donald Sexauer have appeared nationwide in any number of print shows, including Boston Printmakers (1979, '80, '81), the National Academy (1967), Pratt Graphics Center (1966-68) and Parsons Exhibition Center (New York), where he received the Malloy Award for his colored intaglio, To Construct an Angel, included in his exhibit. In addition, he has had numerous one-man shows, and has had works included in some 11 publications and 49 invitationals since 1963.

Philip Coley of Auburn University is represented in the current show by Snow, sunroom and Sesame Street, a work also exhibited in the North Dakota Print Drawing Annual and the Birmingham Biennial. Coley's work is included in the collections of the Montgomery, Alabama Museum, Rockford, Illinois, College, and elsewhere.

Elizabeth Whitfield-Wilde has included an etching, Scenes from My Puppet Master's Trunk, in this SGC show. Her work has been seen on Women in Art (New Orleans) and the Bienville Gallery.

A Greenville, South Carolina, artist, Jeanet Streckler Dreskin, is represented by a monoprint, Welcome, '81. Although she is better known as a painter, Dreskin's prints have been included in the Piedmont Graphics Exhibition and the Southeastern Invitational print and Drawing Show, Augusta, Ga. her works are included in the collections of the Georgia Museum of Art and the National Collection (Smithsonian), among others.

Thomas Nawrocki has had his works reproduced in Artist's proof, a printmaking journal of Pratt Graphics Center, and has been represented in shows throughout the nation and abroad—Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Poland, and Hawaii. He is represented in this exhibit by Landmark 8, a color-blend relief print.

The Southern Graphics Council is an organization of professional and student artists involved in some aspect of printmaking and/or drawing. Chartered in the state of South Carolina in 1973 as the Southeastern Graphics Council, the charter was amended in 1978 to include Southwestern states as well.

Intramural Flag Football

by JIM KINSEY

The flag football season came to an end Monday, November 8. Beck Edmond's "D" team geared up to play Mark Hazelton's "B" team, to bring up the cleanest and most exciting games of the season.

Beck's team managed to pull off a 26-21 victory. Those who scored for the winning team were Darryl Vick, 12 points; Kent Young, 8 points; and Beck Edmonds, 6 points.

The scorers for the second team were Edd Patterson, 12 points; Dave Mathon, 1 point; Jaures Brown, 6 points; and Gary Benton, 2 points.

Congratulations to the "D" team, the 1982 Intramural Flag Football Champions.

Letters To The Editor

Faculty and Students:

Recently Alisa Mosely of Career Planning and Placement in Dr. Squatriglia's office visited my "Introduction to Physical Education" class to share with the students not only the functions of her office but also some pertinent drills in the systems-analysis of decision making having to do with not only career planning but also undergraduate majors to pursue, areas of individual strengths, and motivational interests.

The presentation and drills were not only pertinent but also very precise. They were, in fact, necessary to each student's decision making in the future and also while pursuing a degree here at Coastal Carolina College. They fit exceptionally well into the course content of "Introduction to Physical Education," and I have asked Alisa to not only return again this semester but every semester.

This letter is a word of encouragement to the faculty to consider putting Alisa to work overtime for the benefit of our students by inviting her to your class to reach as many students as possible as soon as possible, as well as a word of encouragement to all Coastal Carolina students to go to the Career Planning and Placement office and request their services, motivational scales and personality scales to assist you in your immediate and long range career and curriculum decisions.

To fully appreciate Alisa's contribution it would be very beneficial for the faculty member to be present during the program, rather than use it as a substitute on a day when you are absent from class.

Thank you, on behalf of our students, for your consideration in this matter.

Yours in decision making,

Larry Carr
Baseball Coach

To the students,

The Cultural Art Series is a committee consisting of seven faculty and staff members and three student body representatives. One of the duties of this committee is to book performing artists to appear on campus. In order to plan for a successful 1983-84 year, the committee would like to bring in some concert artists, dramas, comedians, et al, of the student body's choice. If you have any suggestions, submit them to Pat Singleton, room 206 A, in the Student Center. The deadline for suggestions is Tuesday, November 30. Shoot for the top performers, such as Ronnie Milsap or Alabama. The committee will do its best to meet your wishes based on funding.

Thank You, Blood Donors

by JULIE RICE

Alpha Phi Omega, sponsor of last week's Blood Drive, sincerely appreciates the turnout of blood donors. One hundred and twenty people showed up to donate and 109 pints of blood were collected. This figure well exceeds the goal, which was 65 pints. Compared to last year's collection of 90 pints, this year was a significant improvement. Scott Johnson, sponsor of APO, said the turnout "was fantastic. This is the best turnout we've ever had. We actually had waiting lines, which we've never had before."

Thank you again, kind blood donors, your donations are especially appreciated by their recipient, Ms. Angela Eaddy, and her family.

Campus Union on the Road Again

Campus Union attended the Seventh Annual Fisher and Associates Showcase band in Charlotte, N.C., on Sunday, November 7. Eleven Campus Union members attended.

The showcase started at noon at the Park Center, and lasted until 8 p.m. There were two D.J.'s acting as the Masters of Ceremonies and nine bands playing soul, top 40 and good old rock and roll.

The last band, of course, was Sugar Creek who played a one-hour concert featuring everything from originals from their new album to Joe Jackson's "Stepping Out."

Campus Union is planning on having Sugar Creek for the Annual Cino Day on April 8, 1983. After the Showcase and the ride back to Coastal, we were rock'n rolled out of our souls!

Why A Literary Magazine?

by SANDY JEFFCOTT
Special to the Chanticleer

Writing is an act requiring a maximum of effort, coordination of physical and mental powers, and PRACTICE. Reading and writing, foundation skills, are difficult to master.

The mastery of writing is not an easy task. There is a great maturity of mind and body that is required by the writer. The use of personal experience and the sharing of his writing with others is essential for improvement. Daily writing habits are important, and writing for various purposes are necessary.

Creative writing is the ability to master words used to define differences and likeness. This is what conveys experiences and meaning to the reader. Encouragement should be provided on every level of education.

The school literary magazine fulfills the purpose of existence when it becomes the medium for publication of the written and artistic efforts of the faculty and the student body which it serves. It is an outlet for creative expressions and a source of competition for the writer, poet, essayist, photographer, illustrator, and the artist.

High standards of quality must be maintained so the artist will strive for perfection. pride of the creator often leads to a healthy dissatisfaction. It is a discontent in which the artist feels that he could have done better had he taken a little more time, searched out more effective words, or refined the plot a bit more.

The aim for perfection by its contributors and the set of standards that are maintained, help make the student magazine worthy of its place on the college campus. It must develop student creative effort and clear thinking to fulfill its end. The magazine must be Both an incentive and a reward: the incentive to the artist to do his best, and a reward by publishing his best effort.

Our college has the Archarios as its medium for publishing the written and artistic efforts of the faculty and the student body. This magazine has maintained standards which have resulted in positive growth and development. Each year some improvement The Archarios is our student magazine where creative expression may compete for publication.

Carpe Diem to Sponsor Writing Workshops

Carpe Diem will begin to hold writing workshops on a bi-monthly basis for all aspiring writers, frustrated students, or campus communicators. The workshops will involve a helpful critical session wherein all participants help with rewriting and revisions on writings. The writings can include anything from a term paper to a bit of prose. The purpose of the workshops is to help all participants learn how to write more effectively through listening to the feedback of others besides faculty.

The first workshop will take place at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, December 2, 1982, at Karyl Brown's home in Ramsey Acres. Those needing instructions to get there should contact a member of Carpe Diem.

The atmosphere will be informal and all those interested are asked to bring a sample of writing to be worked on.

Do you think that raising the legal drinking age will prevent some cases of DUI?

Terry Barnett - "Not a chance. We'll just have a lot of underage drinking. If one is 18 and old enough to vote and serve in the armed forces, he is old enough to consume alcoholic beverages."

Derek Ammons - "If someone wants to drink, they'll get it anyway, and raising the drinking age won't stop this."

Trish Marsh - "No, I don't think raising the drinking age will prevent it. There are still older drunks."

Todd Macneir - "I really don't believe that raising the drinking age will affect the number of DUI's. I feel that the only way to correct the numbers of DUI's is to inflict stiffer penalties and increase public awareness programs."

Teri Skipper - "No, because people are going to buy liquor no matter what age they are."

Returned Check Policy Needs Enforcement

by RODNEY ROGERS

The book store recently reported over $1800.00 worth of bad checks in one week. Cashing of checks is a benefit that Coastal offers, and the students should be more careful when writing checks. After a recent SGA meeting, rumors started that there was a new returned check policy, but Jimmy Soles, Director of the Student Center, comments, "The present policy is the same policy that has been in effect. It has never, in my opinion, been enforced." Mr. Soles feels that if a student fails to compensate for a bad check, he should be turned over to the magistrate's office. Jimmy Soles says that this is not going to be done, but he feels that it should be.

For the students' benefit, the policy is as follows:

Registration Fee Checks & Credit Cards

If a check or credit card given in payment of student fees is not paid upon presentation to the bank on which it is drawn, the student will be required to pay a late registration fee of $5 per day beginning with the first day of classes (for a maximum of $30) plus a $5 service charge. If a student fails to pay the total amount of the check or credit card plus the additional charges (by cash or cashier's check), his/her registration will be automatically cancelled.

A student whose registration has been cancelled will be required to pay a reinstatement fee of $40 in order to re-enter the College in the next registration period and must also provide proof of cash to pay all fees.

A student whose prior registration has been cancelled and who wishes to be reinstated within the same semester must receive approval from the Office of the Dean of Academic Affairs within ten (10) working days from the date of cancellation, and pay an additional $40 reinstatement fee. Students are not eligible for reinstatement after this period.

Other Checks and Credit Cards

If a check or credit card given in payment of other fees and charges is not paid upon presentation to the bank on which the check is drawn, the student will be required to pay a $5 service charge. If the student fails to pay the total amount of the check or credit card, plus the service charge (by cash or cashier's check), the College will have the right to issue a warrant for the total amount, including costs, and may not allow the student to re-enter the College, secure a transcript or records, or receive a diploma until the total amount has been paid.

Check Cashing

If a check is cashed for a student by the College and the check is returned by the bank for any reason, the same rules as stated above for Other Checks and Credit Cards will apply.

Ty Curtis: The Musician

by DELPHINE JOHNSON
Feature Editor

"I enjoy playing music for all ages. When I play I lose myself in the music." These are the words of Tyson A. Curtis, a local musician and student here at Coastal. Curtis is from Hemingway, S.C. He is a senior majoring in Physical Education.

"Ty," as he is called by everyone, says that he enjoys being a musician and a student. "People who hear me play for the first time do not expect me to be a student, and on the other hand, people who know me as a student do not expect me to be a musician." Curtis writes contemporary, folk, "punk folk" and pop music. He has performed at many local clubs and lounges such as: Holiday Inn, The Gray Man, Gibson's Restaurant and Lounge, Pawleys Island Inn, and Drunken Jacks. Ty has also performed at many regional colleges.

Ty says that although he is a musician, he decided to major in education because he wanted to expand his knowledge. "I did not want to be limited to one thing I could do well. A good education is a good foundation to have and becomes a part of the person who has it."

"I have been playing music since I was nine years old. I would not be playing now if I did not have the support of my family. I owe them a lot." His family consists of his mother and father, brother Woody, and his St. Bernard Bowzer.

Ty intends to pursue music and teach Physical Education to first graders when he graduates. He has written songs that have been recorded by other artists, and he is considering recording for himself soon. Ty also wants to perform for more colleges in different states.

Curtis gives his view of the college: "I love this college because it has a 'laid back' environment. Students do not have to compete with a 'rat race'." I enjoy seeing and meeting new people here at the college. Everyone is friendly here. Coastal is a very popular college, and academically it is of the utmost quality. I am proud to be a part of this great college."

Army ROTC. Now you can take it in 2 years, too.

If you missed taking Army ROTC in your first two years of college, you may not have missed out. Because of the Army ROTC Two-Year program. You'll have to attend a special six-week camp the summer before your junior year. But you'll be well paid for it.

And altogether, you'll earn a total of about $2,900 to help you through your last two years of college. Then you'll earn a commission as an officer at the same time you earn a college degree.

SCSSL Rocks the Capitol

by MARTHA WILHOIT
Business Manager

The State Capitol was the site for the 27th annual fall session of the South Carolina State Student Legislature, which was held in Columbia November 4 through 7.

Members of the Coastal Delegation were Trish Marsh, Delegation Chairperson and Clerk of the Senate, Kelly Black, member of the Senate, and Janice Williams, Senate member. Members of the House of Representatives included Sue Bennet, Jeff Hughes, Todd Macneir, Steve Neeves, Martha Wilhoit and Vickie Kujala.

Coastal took eight pieces of legislation to the session and four of the eight were passed by both houses and signed by the governor of S.C.S.S.L.

A special thanks goes to Dr. Terry Barnett who is the advisor for S.C.S.S.L. He was very helpful to all of the students, one of the students said: "Dr. Barnett was well received and respected by all S.C.S.S.L. members from all the delegations that he came in contact with; his genuine interest inspired all the members of our delegation," said Todd Macneir.

"It was a weekend full of learning. All we lost was a few hours of sleep, but it was worth it!" related a member of the Coastal Delegation.

Todd Macneir's bill was defeated in the House on Friday. He reintroduced the bill on Saturday and it was passed by the House and then by the Senate.

Jeff Hughes teamed his bill with people who had similar bills. He and Allan Moore and Julie Cribbs of Clemson consolidated their bills into one which was passed in both houses.

Another bill that was co-authored was on the storage of nuclear waste. The bill was presented by Greg Harris of Clemson and Martha Wilhoit.

If you are looking for fun, as many people are, here is a solution to your problem.

Koastal Klowns needs you. Koastal Klowns is an organized club on campus that has been established for many years at Coastal. The club has many productive activities to give cheer to the community and children.

They participated in the Conway Christmas parade, the Surfside Christmas parade and the Loris Christmas parade. They also go to children's wards in hospitals to cheer sick children.

Martha Wilhoit, spokesperson for Koastal Klowns, said, "You can't imagine the smile on a child's face when he sees a clown. Especially when you're the person behind the big red nose. We have a lot of fun in the club, but we need more members."

The club features Harry Rogers, a professional clown and a student at Coastal, "Happy Harry." Also they have a Valley Girl Clown, a Preppy Clown, a Political Clown, a Formal Clown and regular clowns.

The club meets Wednesday, November 17, at 1:30 in Room 203 in the Student Center.

The club encourages student and faculty to join Koastal Klowns.

Super Star Competition

The S.C. Association for Physical Education and Recreation met November 4th and 5th for a convention at the Landmark Hotel in Myrtle Beach. From this convention sprang a new competition for P.E. and Recreational majors, the Super Star Competition.

Coastal, Winthrop, U.S.C., Citadel, Francis Marion, College of Charleston, U.S.C.-Aiken, and U.S.C.-Spartanburg sent representatives to this first ever competition. Coastal was represented by seniors James Edmonds and Denise Byrd. James Edmonds finished third overall, and Denise Byrd finished fourth overall. They were chosen from a very good field of P.E. and Recreational majors here at Coastal.

They were chosen because it gave the P.E. Dept. a chance to recognize two seniors who have proved quite skilled and have carried a good attitude toward their skills and their chosen professions. They proved to be quite popular among the other schools. The College of Charleston finished as overall champion of the competition.

The P.E. and Recreational majors were tested in four areas. The mile and a half run and written tests were given in soccer, gymnastics, badminton, and basketball.

"The competition was at a friendly level and it wasn't uncommon to find students cheering for each other in the different schools. The competition wasn't between schools but among each other, and we hope it doesn't reach rivalries. This competition gave the students a chance to meet other people across the state who major in the same fields and to compare their programs," says Ms. Meade.
